

Scrubs and Lab Coats

A formalized scrubs and lab coat program can help you tackle key employer and marketplace objectives:

- In today's highly competitive employer market, reducing employee turnover is a top priority. Facility-funded scrubs express appreciation and support—boosting satisfaction and retention.
- Protect and project your hospital brand with a consistent scrubs solution to ensure that your brand stands out from the crowd and delivers a consistent message.

Taylor Healthcare is uniquely positioned to help ensure that your program meets its objectives. Taylor Healthcare, as part of Taylor Corporation, is a top 5 promotional marketing and apparel distributor. Additionally, as a leading Healthcare communications provider, our industry experience is unmatched in the space.

By blending an organization and thinking across our solution (healthcare apparel) and industry (healthcare), we understand the challenges and opportunities facing our healthcare clients in a constantly evolving environment.

Why a Managed Program?

Boost Employee Satisfaction & Retention

Nursing shortage: according to the Bureau of Labor, 1.2 million vacancies for registered nurses will emerge between 2014-2022. Finding, recruiting, and incenting nurses to join your organization is a critical step to ensuring patient satisfaction. With the vast majority of the $1.5 billion spent annually on scrubs and lab coats being made by users and not facilities, a facility funded program has the potential to cost-effectively show appreciation to drive satisfaction and retention.

Build Brand Awareness & Consistency

Increasing competition means a growing importance on focusing on your hospital brand and to differentiate from your competition. As more hospitals require color-coded dress codes to help drive brand efforts, a managed scrubs program can help ensure brand consistency.

Focus on Strategic Initiatives

You are busy, and adding the management of a complicated scrubs program only grows your to-do list. Identifying a partner to design, develop and deploy a Scrubs and Lab Coat program enables you to focus your time and energy elsewhere.
